CHILDREN AND FAMILIES:

*Preserving family life through hard challenges
ROME, 15-17 November 2019
GRAND HOTEL PALATINO
VIA CAVOUR 213/M
PROVISIONAL PROGRAMME
(June 2019)*

Introduction

Welcoming, integrating and providing social and economic support for refugees from war, famine or poverty, and migrants, within and between countries, constitute an urgent worldwide challenge of our times.

The conference will shine a light on the ways in which families and children are impacted by dislocation and relocation, and how social workers, therapists, family lawyers and policy-makers can ease or solve the difficulties they encounter and preserve family life.

How the Conference is organized

Keynote presentations from different parts of the world, backed up by workshops allowing participants to share experiences and learn new skills, will form the major part of the conference. The ICCFR community seeks new connections with students, academics and practitioners with expertise in the areas of its focus.

The Conference will be organized in four distinct sessions. In every session there will be a plenary, offering the opportunity to listen to experts and exchange views among the participants. These will be followed "discussion groups", in which the contents of the keynote speeches may be discussed, along with relevant topics raised by and of interest to the participants. In Sessions II and III, there will be workshops on various aspects of the conference theme, presented by different experts from around the world.

The first three sessions will be dedicated to the three main disciplinary areas traditionally of interest in ICCFR conferences:

- descriptive-demographic-sociological aspects (quantitative and qualitative features of migrations around the world, and some general reflections on policies for regulating, promoting or controlling migration)
- legal aspects (rights of the migrants and related problems)
- relational-psychological aspects and support/integration services (how services and professionals can take care of and support migrant families and children).

All three keynote speeches will give a general overview of the international situation. Each will be followed by an intervention from an expert from the same discipline, whose role will be to point out similarities and differences in the Italian situation. All sessions will be chaired by a member of the ICCFR Board.
